Ariel

Sing in Style

King Triton's Under-the-Sea Concert was about to begin. But Ariel, the concert's biggest star, was still in her room getting ready.

"Ariel, you must hurry!" Sebastian said firmly.

"But I want my hair to look perfect," replied the princess as she fiddled with her pretty locks.

Sebastian was a talented and crafty crab. He knew just how to make Ariel happy—and get the concert started.

The concert was wonderful, and Ariel was a hit!
“I’ve created two masterpieces,” said a proud
Sebastian. “A spectacular concert and a beautiful Little Mermaid!”

Put the seashell, star, and flower clips in your hair like Ariel.
Now you're ready to sing!

*S*now White

The Fairest One of All

It was a warm and sunny morning. Snow White decided to plan a party for the Dwarfs while they were away. She tidied up the cottage and baked some sweet treats.

After a full day of preparing, Snow White had lost track of time.

“Oh, dear,” said the princess, “I must get ready for the party.”

Snow White washed her hands and brushed her silky black hair. Her two little bird friends fixed her shiny red ribbon. The rosy-cheeked princess was still the fairest in all the land!

The Seven Dwarfs enjoyed Snow White's wonderful party. They played music, ate sweet treats, and danced with the fair Snow White well into the night.

Cinderella

A Precious Gift

Cinderella gazed out the window as her stepsisters rode off to yet another Royal Ball.

"I wish I could get all dressed up and go," sighed Cinderella. Gus and Jaq felt bad for poor Cinderella.

Gus and Jaq set out to pick some flowers for Cinderella. But on their way down an old mouse hole, they found something even better—a sparkling hair clip!

The excited mice gave Cinderella the beautiful hair clip.

"You found it!" exclaimed Cinderella. "This was my mother's clip. I thought it was lost forever."

"Oh, it's so wonderful," said Cinderella, putting the lovely clip in her hair. "Maybe one day I'll be able to wear it to a ball and all my wishes and dreams will come true."

Belle

Book of Wonders

Even though the sun was shining, Belle was relaxing inside the castle with one of her favorite books. It was full of adventure and romance.

“Oh, there are so many wonderful things to be,” said Belle, imagining the glamorous people and faraway places.

"I could be a mighty queen . . . or a princess in a magic kingdom . . . or an adventurer in a foreign land."

"But for now, I think I'll have some fun being me!" Belle said, snapping her book closed. She fixed her hair and went outside to look for her own adventure.
